

RAY SEMKO
“DICE MAN”
DEFENSE SECURITY SERVICE ACADEMY

Since 1989, Ray Semko has been giving Defensive Information to Counter Espionage (D*I*C*E*) presentations and is the creator of the program. The briefings have been presented around the world to thousands of U.S. government, military, public safety, security and industry personnel.

D*I*C*E* is a unique security awareness, counterintelligence and threat briefing. The look at the worlds of espionage and terrorism goes to the heart of Semko's message of countering these threats through Operational Security and personal responsibility.

The D*I*C*E* Man explains who the players are, their targets, their methods of operation and, most importantly, how you can protect the information you handle.

Semko, presently with the Defense security service, Security Education Training Awareness program, has worked for the National Security Agency, the Department of Energy, the Defense Intelligence Agency, U.S. Army Foreign Counterintelligence Activity, and various military intelligence groups since 1971.

He brings years of military and government security and counterintelligence experience to his D*I*C*E* presentations.

His objective is to help the audience recognize America's adversaries and prevent these adversaries from exploiting our national security information.